QUEEN VICTORIA DYING.

(CONCLUDED FROM FIRST PAGE.) and she became heir presumptive to the throne on the accession of her uncle, William IV, in 1830. Her education was intrusted to the Duchess of Northumberland. On the death of William IV without issue, June 20, 1837, the crowns of England and Hanover, which had been worn by the same person since the accession of George I (1714), were separated, the forme devolving upon the Princess Victoria, and the latter, by virtue of the Salic law, falling to the Duke of Cumberland, the late King's younger brother. Queen Victoria was crowned in Westminster Abbey, Jun-28, 1838. When she came to the throne the Whig ministry of Lord Melbourne was in power. Her sympathies were with that party, and they retained me administration, in spite of a majority against them is the Commons, till 1841. The first years of the Queen's reign were disturbed by the rebellion in Canada, the anti-corn-law league, the chartist agitation, the Jamaica question, Irish affairs, the Afghan war (1833-42), and the war with China (1840.) The revenue at the same time was steadily falling off, the deficit in 1841 being about £2,000,000. On Feb. 10, 1840, Queen Victoria married her cousin, Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. On Aug. 30, 1841, Lord Melbourne resigned and was succeeded by Sir and the dangers of the year of revolutions the following year. DERBY AND ABERDEEN.

Robert Peel, who retained office till 1846.

He succeeded in placing foreign affairs on a satisfactory footing and carried through the introduction of an income tax and the Conservatives held office under Lord Derby through 1852 and were succeeded by the Aberdeen coalition Ministry. Forced to give way before the pressure of public opinion on the question of the management of the Russian war, they were followed in February, 1855, by the Palmerston Ministry, who brought to a successful close the Russian war, as well as wars with the great Indian rebellion when in Febto punish conspiracies against foreign potentates and resigned. Lord Derby held office till June, 1859, when Lord Palmerston was reinstated. The rebellion in India having been put down, the possessions of the East India Company were transferred to the crown in August, 1858. The friendly relations which had long existed with Napoleon III were maintained and neutrality preserved during the Italian war, the civil war in the United States, the Polish insurrection and the war in Schleswig-Holstein, though decided leanings on the part of the Palmerston Ministry more than once threatened serious complications. The expedition against Mexico (1861) was abandoned and the protectorate the Ionian islands given up (1863). Lord Palmerston died in October, 1865, when the Ministry was remodeled under Earl Russell. It was defeated on a clause in the reform bill in June, 1866, and gave place to a Conservative Ministry formed by Lord Derby, which carried a reform bill through Parliament in 1867. Lord Derby resigned in February, 1868, and Mr. Disraeli became prime minister. The Abyssinian expedition, begun under Derby, was successfully carried out. There being a majority against Disraeli in the elections of 1868, he resigned in Decemcalled to the premiership, and held office till the elections of 1874 showed the Conservatives again in the majority. The leading events of his administration were the disestablishment of the Irish Church, the Irish land act, the elementary education act, the abolition of purchase of army commissions, the negotiation of the treaty of Washington covering the Alabama claims, the passage of the ballot act, and the Ashantee war. He was succeeded in 1874 by Mr. Disraeli. One of his most striking acts of foreign policy was the purchase of the shares of the Suez canal stock, belonging to the Khedive of Egypt (November, 1875). After the death of Disraeli, Gladagain succeeded, and was defeated on his home rule bill and succeeded by Robert Cecil, Earl of Salisbury. Gladstone was again swept to the front on a wave of Liberal sentiment, but age and failing heatlh compelled him to resign, and he was succeeded by Roseberry, who was unable to hold together the diverse elements of Liberal and Liberal Union politics, and was succeeded by Salisbury, who is now in power. THE TWO JUBILEES. The jubilee of her accession to the throne was celebrated in 1887, and the diamond jubilee, in 1897, of this unparalleled reign of more than sixty years served to emphasize the affection and reverence of the people, the strength of the British navy and the loyalty of the colonies to the mother country. Since the diamond jubilee the Queen has lived more in retirement than ever, the melancholy which has marked her life since the death of the prince consort asserting itself more strongly as the infirmities of age enforced their the sorrowful days of the Boer war, now 12.00 | in progress for the last fifteen months. 1106 W. Not less important and beneficial has been the example set by her Majesty and the prince consort in the practice of every domestic virtue. From the day of her accession to the throne Queen Victoria has enjoyed to the fullest extent the respect and affection of her subjects; yet several attempts have been made to assassinate her; one in June, 1840, by a crazy lad named Oxford; another in May, 1842, by John Francis, who was sentenced to be hanged for the offense, but the sentence was commuted to transportation for life; and a third in July of the same year by one J. W. Bean, whose only punishment was eighteen months' imprisonment. Queen Victoria travels frequently. both in her own dominions and abroad. Her mother, the Duchess of Kent, died March 16, 1861, and the Prince Consort December 14 the same year. Her grief at his death has been so intense as in a great degree to prevent her from appearing in public and at court ceremonials, though she has never neglected her duties as a sovereign. She lives in comparative seclusion and generally spends the summer at Balmoral in Scotland. In February, 1876, she opened Parliament in person for the first time since her bereavement, and in April she was authorized by an act of Parliament, proposed by Mr. Disraeli, to assume the title of Empress of India. The Queen has had nine children, six of whom are living: Victoria, born in 1840. married in 1858 to Prince Frederick of Germany (she is now Empress Dowager): Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, 1841, married in 1863 to the Princess Alexandra of Denmark: Alice, 1843, married in 1862 to Prince Luis of Hesse-Darmstadt, died in burgh in 1866, and married in 1874 to the Grand Duchess Maria, only daughter of Emperor Alexander II of Russia, died in 1900 as reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg; Helena. 1846, married in 1866 to Prince Christian sundry rhapsodies. The next day it rained and in one way and another the rill became much swelled as to its head and prattled the more. Presently a man of affairs chanced that way, and when he heard the rill prattling he straightway built a dam, which gathered the rill into a great, silent mill pond. Now the rill says nothing and saws wood.

A FAIR AVERAGE OF TRANSACTIONS IN A DULL SEASON.

There Will Be Considerable Activity When Spring Opens-Gossip

of Interest.

Notwithstanding this is the winter season, when business of all kinds is usually dull, real estate transactions show a pretty fair average. Conditions are against sales, and buildings are not being erected as rapidly as will be the case when spring arrives, but there is a reasonable amount of transfers of properties, and several large and handsome structures are being erected. Real estate dealers are almost unanimous in the opinion that the first of March wil bring an activity in their line that has no been seen in years, for money at low interest is plentiful, and there is a disposition on the part of many who are able to build to enter upon the work as soon as the weather will permit. During the week ending last night there were 110 transfers entered on the county recorder's books, showing a total of $199,-748.18. Only three of these were out of the ordinary-that of the sale of the Plaza Hotel on the Circle by John Roberts to Arthur C. Newby for a consideration of abolition of the corn laws. The Ministry of Lord John Russell (1846-52) carried the $85,000, Mr. Newby transferring to Mr. Robempire safely through the Irish famine erts his Michigan-street apartment house; the purchase of the buildings and ground (1848) and repealed the navigation laws on part of Lot 6, Square 67, by C. C. Perry, for $23,000. This property is located on Kentucky avenue, about the middle of the first block south of Washington street, and adjoining his ground that lies immediately scuth of that, which abuts on the alley which runs to Maryland street, west or Illinois, and upon which stands the large brick building occupied by the McElwaine-Richards Company, with a frontage on Kentucky avenue of 99 feet and on Maryland street of 61 feet. Several small but substantial structures occupy the front of the newly purchased Perry ground on Kentucky avenue, which measures 58.8 feet, and an old brick building stands on the Persia and China, and were struggling with | Maryland street end that has stood there for years and is now dignified with the on that street. This gives Mr. Perry, with the former ground owned by him, a total on Kentucky avenue of 97.6 feet and 75.6 on Maryland. So that it is apparent that he has been very fortunate in his investment, as it will give him a large surface, advantageously located, for the erection of a large building, when business-which is sure to go in that direction-demands more modern and convenient quarters.

On East Washington street near East, there is a three-story brick almost completed that adjoins another sightninety feet frontage now ready for occupancy. This building occupies the site where for years one-story frame buildings, worn and tottering with age, stood until a few months ago they were condemned by the building inspector and gave place to a building that is a credit to the street and the owners. BIG FOUR CHANGES.

Two Retirements and Several Promo tions of Officials Announced.

Feb. 1 will bring a number of official changes on the Big Four lines. On that date T. J. Higgins, superintendent of the Indianapolis and Cleveland division, is given the title of general agent at Cleveland, and Albert Ingalls, assistant superintendent of these divisions, becomes superintendent. R. P. Buchanan, assistant general freight agent, retires to enter another line of business, and is succeeded by George Ingalls, formerly coal traffic manager of the Chesapeake & Ohio road. Henry Fraser retires as general agent at indianapolis and is succeeded by Andy C. Wood, chief clerk of C. E. Schaff, general manager of the Big Four lines.

Low Rates to California.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.-Radical reductions in passenger rates between Chicago and California points will go into effect over the Santa Fe system and the Southern Pacific line and the latter's connections next month. The fares announced are the lowest ever made from this city to California. The one-way rate from Chicago to any point in California during February, Marc and April will be $30. From St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans the fare will be $27.50 and from all Missouri points it will be $25. The lowest second-class rate from Chicago to California now is $52.50, the cut meaning a reduction of $22.50, or $45 in the round trip charge Tickets at the cut rate will be sold every Tuesday during February, March and April, the first selling date being Feb. 12. Tickets will be honored for passage via the Santa Fe and Albuquerque, the Southern Pacific, via E Paso and Deming and via all lines from Chicago connecting with the Southern Pacific in Ogden. Utah.

Just now there is a lively fight on be tween the Chicago-Florida lines and the Chicago-California roads over winter resort business. While the Florida roads have done a good business since the inauguration of their limited trains officers of the California lines say it has hurt the travel over the latter.

Of Interest to Employes.

NEWARK, O., Jan. 19.-Two suits were filed in the courts here to-day to test the legality of the Baltimore & Ohio relief department. The plaintiffs are John Swan and Joseph D. Caldwell, employes of the railroad company. The suits are similar Swan claims $3 a month was deducted from his wages by the company for dues in the relief department and that he is entitled to recover not less than $50 nor more than $500 on each cause of action under the statutes of Ohio. He asks judgment for $6,500; Caldwell claims damages to the amount of $7,500.

C. W. Kouns Promoted.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 19 .- C. W. Kouns, superintendent of car service for the Santa Fe, has been appointd to the position of assistant general superintendent of the Santa Fe system, with headquarters in Topeka. He will have charge of the movement of traffic and distribution of rolling stock. This office was abolished last year, but since then the duties of superintendent have so increased that it was found necessary to re-establish it.

Railway Sued for Damages. '

CARBONDALE, Ill., Jan. 19 .- Suit for damages has been brought against the Illinois Central Railroad to recover damages for the destruction of over half the business blocks of Makanda, Ill., by fire about ten months ago. The claim is made that the fire resulted from sparks from passing Gallantry vs. Etiquette.

A great political mystery has at last been explained. During the memorable visit of the Czar and Czarina to Paris a few rears ago Felix Faure committed what was an almost unpardonable breach of etiquette and what envious diplomats wanted to turn into an international incident. At one of the dinners he kept his imperial guests waiting nearly an hour after the time set for sitting down at the table. Faure was their business and have an excellent car nothing if not correct in matters of etiservice, the run-from the center of the city quette. He studied them as carefully as he did affairs of state, and he was as punctilious in the observance of the many rules and regulations as only a bourgeois raised to high position can be. Therefore the incident was all the more remarkable. Now we learn that it was the result of a contest between etiquette and gallantry, and be it ever said to the credit of the French President that gallantry was the victor. Just before their majesties arrived Faure was summoned to the telephone. At the other end of the wire was a countess whose husband was a deputy and had often been the President's host on shooting parties. She told M. Faure that her dress absolutely needed an alteration which would require about twenty minutes. She could not wear it as it was; no more could she stay away from the dinner or come to it after it had begun. Could the announcement of dinner be delayed? What a posi-tion for M. le President! But he was a Frenchman and the lady's request was granted. But what excuse could he have made to his guests when that twenty minutes expanded into an hour? Was the blame put on the maitre d'hotel or the Foolishness and Ingratitude. Minneapolis Tribune.

The Washington Times, a Democratic paper, is rather ungrateful in classing Grover Cleveland as "one of a small coterie of discarded leaders who fancy that they are the Democratic party, which in the proportion of 1,000,000 to one is in a majority against them and their pretensions." Cleveland is the only Democratic leader who has led his party to victory in a national election since the civil war. He ran for President three times and received a majority of the popular vote every time. The inanity of the party is shown in discarding such leaders.
